BOTANICAL SURVEY OF CHIKHALSE FOREST AREA

The Department of Botany of Abeda Inamdar Senior College, Azam Campus has been engaged in floristic survey of unexplored and incompletely studied area of Pune district. Same kind of activity for Botanical survey of Chikhalse forest area was conducted on 11th Dec. 2018 during N.S.S. residential winter camp. A rapid Botanical survey was conducted at around Chikhalse forest area by Prof. Asif S. Shaikh, Assistant Professor, Department of Botany along with NSS volunteers.

Primary objectives of survey:

- To undertake taxonomical studies on the flora.
- To identify, collect and preserve specimens of plants, which are economically and otherwise beneficial to human beings.

- To survey the plant resources of the Chikhalse Village.
- To undertake ethnobotanical studies and evaluate plants for economic utility.

Chikhalse forest area is located north west to Pune about 49 kms at an altitude of 500 to 650 meter towards Pune-Mumbai direction. The annual rain fall of this area is 2500 to 3000 mm. Maximum temperature is 30 - 35 °C that of minimum is 10 - 20 °C. Soil texture of this area is Black, Red agricultural to rocky non-agricultural. As being in the bowl of Sahyadri, vegetation is a part of dry deciduous forest of Western Ghats and characterized by high degree of diversity in the floristic composition. The activity of botanical survey was undertaken over an area of 10 kms including two hills surrounding Chikhalse. The vegetation during survey was lush green and herbaceous plants were full flowered for which the survey and herbarium collection was successful.

We could observe many herbs, shrubs and trees of different families such as Tiliaceae, Solanaceae, Asclepiadaceae, Euphorbiaceae, Labiatae, Malvaceae, Meliaceae, Lythraceae, Verbenaceae and other of 17 families. The vegetation was dominated by Thespesia, Tectonagrandis, Acaciacatechu, Ficus, Bombax, Butea and Vitexnegundo. The grass land community was dominant on hills near to the forest area.

VEGETATION DIVERSITY

The climatic and altitudinal gradient has resulted in a variety of vegetation types. During the study, two different vegetation types were observed – namely wetland vegetation and Tropical Dry Evergreen vegetation. This survey has recorded a total of 194 plant species from all the two vegetation types.

BIOPROSPECTION AND HUMAN WELFARE

Economically significant plants grow here include numerous lifesaving drug plants, wild aromatic species, ornamental species, wild genetic resources. Therefore, not just conservation of these bio-resources in the region but also their sustainable utilization for human welfare is the priority agenda. The enormous floristic diversity, enormous habitat variation resulting in vast intra-specific variation, chemo-prospecting in wild aromatic plants, wild food plants, Bioprospection of flora for better genotypes in bio-fuel plants (Jatropha, Caralluma, Pongamia, Boswellia and many others. Bioprospection of the flora for metal tolerant genes for environmental bioremediation - in members of Caryophyllaceae, Portulaccaceae and Fabaceae are certain challenging areas.

BIOPROSPECTION IN MEDICINAL AND AROMATIC PLANTS

Some short listed aromatic species like Acronychia pedunculata, Chloroxylonswietenia, Cymbopogonflexuosus, Artemisia nilagirica var. nilagirica, Ocimumgratissimum and Clausenadentata have already shown prospects for their development and popularization in the region. Although the quality and quantity of the required compounds is not satisfactory, the existing diversity can be used to improve and develop these crops. Ethnopharmacological studies are also required for fully understanding their therapeutic value.

SOME URGENT TASK FOR FUTURE

A study on assessment of the floristic diversity in this area is still incomplete. There is an urgent need to systematically survey and document all the economically important species in the wild for future bioprospection work. Bioprospection of the medicinal and aromatic species involving Taxonomists, Ecologists, Phytochemists is also strongly recommended. As the flora is fast dwindling due to several anthropogenic factors, priority must be attached to the study of all wild flora. As a first step in this direction, it is necessary to establish a chain of conservatories of wild plants, particularly of rare, endangered, endemic and other economically important species.

CONCLUDING REMARKS

Chikhalse forest is very rich in biological resources, which have not been satisfactorily documented and utilized. Therefore serious efforts are needed to initiate truly collaborative programmes involving taxonomists and biotechnologists for Bioprospection of our resources and product development. Conservation of our biological resources is another challenging task needing the attention of all biological scientists. It is hoped that the flora will be useful to students of botany, professional taxonomists, plant geographers, wild life biologists, foresters and all those interested in learning about the flora conservation and utilization of the plant resources of the state.
